

2023 Series on Ukraine

Trajectory of the Russia-Ukraine war and how it matters for the rest of the world

Dr. Volodymyr Dubovyk

Odesa I. I. Mechnikov National University (Ukraine)

TUESDAY

April 18

11:30 a.m. - 12:45 p.m.

Gambrell Hall

Room 429

Russia's massive invasion of Ukraine has been ongoing for more than a year now. There is no crystal ball to see how and when exactly it will end. Yet, this will determine the future of these two countries, for sure, and will also reverberate well beyond. Ukraine is fighting for itself, naturally, for its survival, sovereignty, territorial integrity, freedom. But these issues, values are meaningful for many other nations, people. Standing up for what is right, for the just international order, while preventing the world from tuning into some sort of jungle. This and more have particular meaning in the post-Soviet Eurasia, Eastern Europe, Black Sea region, but also in multiple corners of the world.

Walker Institute

College of Arts and Sciences

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Russian & Eurasian Studies Program